Deputy Under Secretary of Defense (Policy)
Director, Bureau of Intelligence and Research, Department of State
Director, National Security Agency
Director, Defense Intelligence Agency
Director, National Reconnaissance Office (S/TK)
Executive Director, Central Intelligence Agency
Assistant Director, Intelligence Division, Federal

Chairman, National Intelligence Council

SUBJECT: DCI's Annual Report to the Congress

1. Attached for your review and comment as appropriate is a draft copy of the DCI's Annual Report to the Congress for 1985. (U)

2. This year's report emphasizes substantive events of importance and the intelligence response to them. Less attention is paid to functional areas such as collection and analysis, which were treated in some detail in the National Foreign Intelligence Strategy recently forwarded to the Congress. The report should be read as complementary to the Strategy, although its perspective is the immediate past. Through its stress on events and accomplishments, it should give the Congress: (U)

- A sense of the kinds of problems and issues intelligence must deal with.
- A sense of the requirements placed on the Community.
- A measure, at least implicit, of the value the nation gets from its intelligence activities.
